Information Sheet

Introduction

The IAEA's International Working Forum on Regulatory Supervision of Legacy Sites (RSLs) focuses on efforts to improve the regulation of existing sites and facilities and to avoid the creation of new legacy sites. The activities implemented through RSLs promote effective and efficient regulatory supervision and remediation of legacy sites, consistent with the IAEA Safety Standards and established international practices. Since its establishment in 2010, in addition to the Annual Meeting, RSLs has organized numerous events, hosted by various Member States, to promote the exchange of experiences among participants and discuss the current challenges related to the regulatory supervision of legacy sites.

Objectives

The purpose of the event is to exchange information on progress made and challenges in the post-remediation management of legacy sites in Portugal. This will help to further develop an understanding of legacy sites, including approaches and methodologies applied, and challenges faced during post-remediation management.

Target Audience

Representatives of decision makers, regulatory bodies, technical support organizations, implementers and other interested parties from Member States, involved in remediation and post-remediation management.
